

Adriana Monique Alvarez is the CEO and Founder of AMA Publishing, where she teaches women how to start highly profitable publishing companies. She's an international bestselling author and has been seen in Forbes, Huffington Post, International Living, Addicted2Success, Elephant Journal, FOX, ABC, and NBC.

She is the author of "HOW TO START A SIX FIGURE PUBLISHING COMPANY," which is available to buy on Amazon. She is a USA Today bestselling author and her most recent book, "THE YOUNGER SELF LETTERS" debuted #1 on bestseller lists internationally.

She mentors high level coaches, consultants, and service providers on how to start their own high-earning, global-impact publishing houses. She is currently living in the middle of nowhere Colorado where she is renovating her grandparents' home and learning how to homestead with her husband, Derek, and two sons, Sam and Grant.

ADRIANA ALVAREZ

As Seen
on:

Forbes

THE
HUFFINGTON
POST

INTERNATIONAL LIVING
Since 1979

THRIVE
GLOBAL

London Daily Post

SUGGESTED INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

- Why did you add a publishing division to your business/decide to teach women how to start their own publishing company?
- What does it take to stand out online as an entrepreneur?
- How can bestselling authors fully leverage that title?
- How do you work with your husband & keep family first in a growing business?
- What is the future of publishing?

SUGGESTED INTERVIEW TOPICS

- Storytelling & Business
- Why entrepreneurs need a book.
- Why authors can't live on book sales alone.
- What bestselling author almost never do.
- Why are so few women in leadership roles in publishing.

